of all types of fears like fear of theft, bankruptcy, death and other emotional issues. Finally, some shlokas deal with turbulences created by the spirit world.

Who can chant?

- People who seek and are in need of healing or help can chant the shlokas and mantras themselves.
- Caregivers, particularly family members and loved ones who desire to see their relatives/friends healed or get help.

How to chant?

After having identified your issue/concern/problem, think about it before you begin the chanting of the relevant shloka and mantra connected with the issue.

- Keep the yantra (mystic diagram in gold) in front of you and concentrate on it while you chant.
- Chant the shlokas and mantra from the card /picture in front of you.
- Chant the shlokas (9 times) along with the mantra (108 times) continuously, till you feel it's vibration within your being.
- Although, one can chant the mantra at any time, if possible chant the mantras in the morning hours between 4:00-6:00 am, as this time is proven to be the most effective for healing. One can also chant in the evenings between 5:00-7:00pm.
- The cycle of chanting must be for 21 days continuously to get best results.
- In addition, having food without salt for 21 days is recommended for even better results. (Saltless food can be consumed by either the patient, or the person chanting the mantras.)
- The patient or the person chanting can listen to the shlokas and mantras at night. In addition, one can listen while travelling or during free time so that the mantra is deeply ingrained in the subconscious mind.
